

Below is a communication made by Berry Global Group, Inc. on February 7, 2024:

To HH&S Colleagues,

As you know, Berry entered a process in 2023 to explore strategic alternatives for our HH&S business, which would optimize our portfolio and deliver value to our stakeholders. After 10 months of exploring our options, we have arrived at a solution that is beneficial to both Berry and the HHNF team.

I am genuinely excited to share the news about the planned spin-off and combination of Berry's Health, Hygiene and Specialties Global Nonwovens and Films business ("HHNF") with Glatfelter. As Kevin mentioned, this transaction provides a unique opportunity to create a leader in the growing specialty materials industry, and to help customers around the world address their toughest challenges.

Glatfelter's portfolio of innovative capabilities and sustainability solutions spans across diverse applications, ranging from beverage filtration and personal hygiene products to home improvement and industrial technologies. Berry's HHNF business and Glatfelter have significantly complementary products serving our global healthcare and hygiene customers. Together, we will offer a highly complementary product suite, including both polymer-based and fiber-based solutions, supported by strong innovation capabilities, with significant geographic diversification and a presence in all major markets. These important factors drove our decision to combine HHNF with Glatfelter, and I look forward to connecting with you live to talk about the significant opportunities ahead.

Each of you has contributed to the work helping us reach this milestone. Looking ahead, what I'm most excited about is our drivers for growth. The field of specialty materials is rapidly evolving, and because of your efforts, we are positioned to benefit from global growth trends arising from the growing middle class, an aging population, the increasing globalization of supply chains, and a heightened focus on personal hygiene, sustainability and safety products. We are confident that with Glatfelter, we will be even better positioned to capitalize on these mega trends and drive growth for employees, customers, and shareholders alike.

In the weeks and months ahead, we will continue to provide updates about our integration plans. Until the transaction closes, which is expected to occur in the second half of 2024, the HHNF business will remain a part of Berry, and we will continue to operate as usual. By staying focused and working in the same collaborative spirit that has gotten us to this point, we will get to the finish line quicker and will be in a great position to start our next chapter with Glatfelter. Following the closing of the transaction, I will be the CEO of the combined business.

On behalf of the Berry senior leadership team, thank you for your hard work that has made this combination possible. I'm confident we have great opportunities ahead and I hope you share my excitement for the future.

Sincerely,

Curt Begle
President, Health, Hygiene, & Specialties
